NEW Spring 2024 TITLE!

Always Together

Written by Patricia Kreiser • Illustrated by Patricia Kreiser

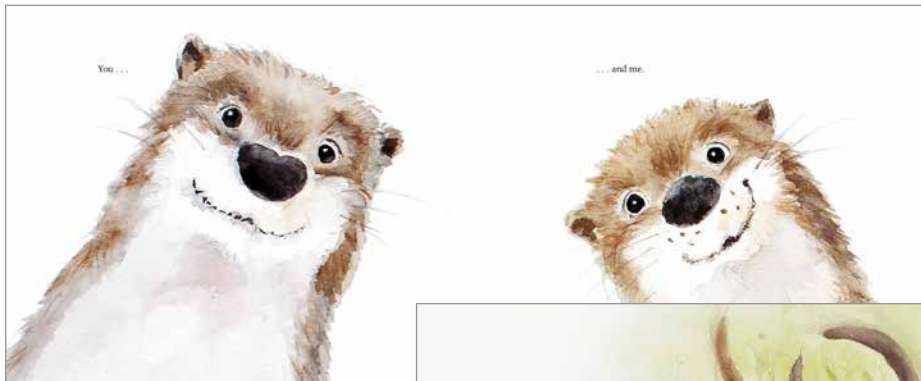

Close companions through their daily adventures, two otters are always connected, always sharing, and always together—until suddenly, they are not. One is left behind, and nothing is the same. Debut author-illustrator Patricia Kreiser brilliantly showcases themes of loss, separation, and loneliness by combining soft, watercolor illustrations with minimal but powerful text in this gorgeous picture book.

NEW Spring 2024 TITLE!

School Is Full of Superheroes

Written by Michael Dahl • Illustrated by Omar Lozano

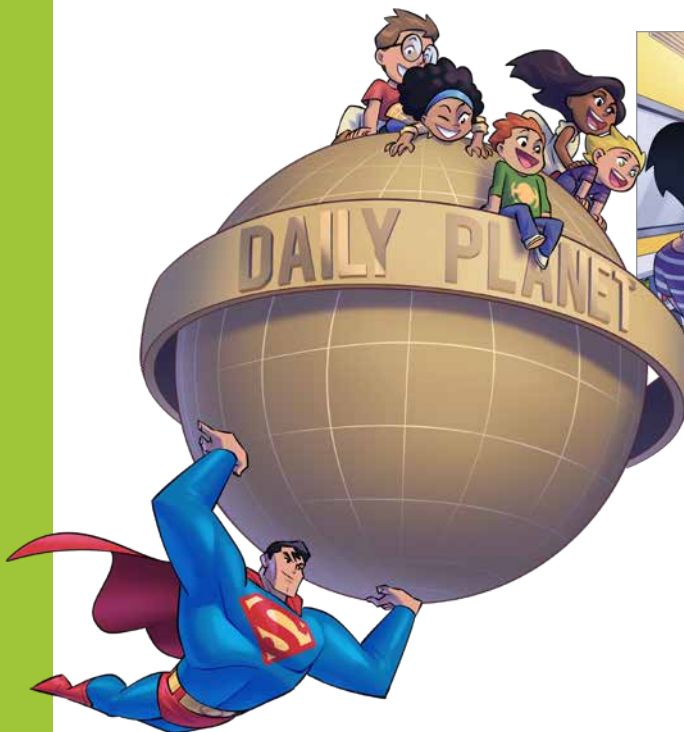

DC Comics' Greatest Super Heroes celebrate teachers, librarians, cafeteria workers, and other heroic school figures in this superpowered picture book.

Where in the universe do the most powerful heroes assemble? School, of course! In this action-packed picture book, Batman™, Superman™, Wonder Woman™, and other DC Comics superheroes mirror the heroic tasks of real-life school figures. A principal leads their school toward a common goal, just like Aquaman™ commands his schools of sea life. A teacher demonstrates compassion with the same energy as the Amazon Princess™, Wonder Woman. School custodians clean classrooms with the lightning-quick speed of The Flash™. Written by award-winning author Michael Dahl, this powerful picture book is a Thank You to essential school workers, showcasing their everyday heroism. The perfect Teacher Appreciation gift or an inspiring read-aloud for any young student.

NEW Spring 2024 TITLE!

The Kindness Booth

Written by Laura K. Murray • Illustrated by Andrea Boatta

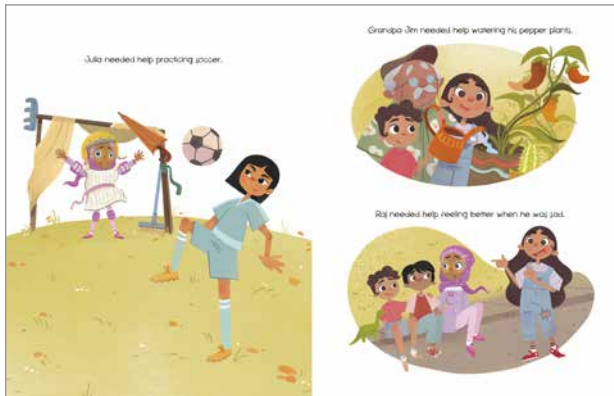

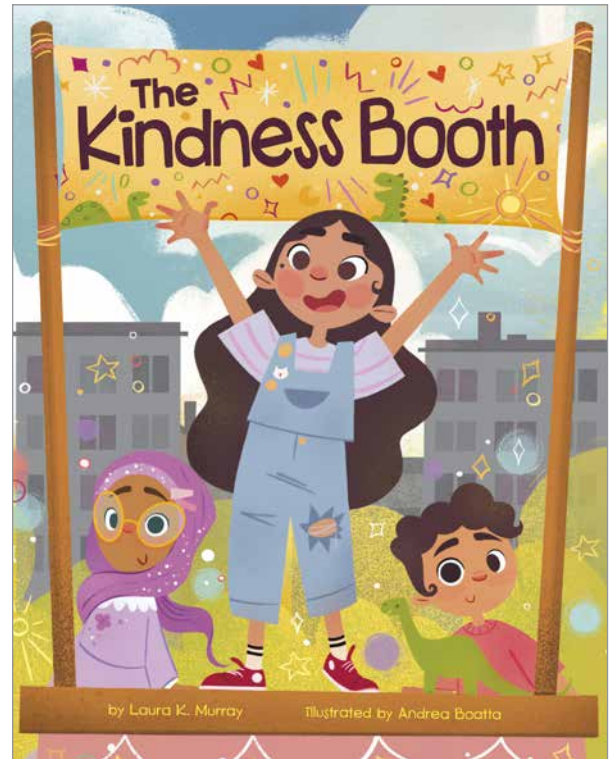

When Mya wakes up to a gloomy day, her grandpa asks her how she could make the day brighter. His simple question puts Mya into motion, and together with her little brother, Oliver, and neighbor Addie, she opens the Kindness Booth. Their plan is to spread some sunshine to the neighbors in her apartment complex by helping them throughout the day. But what happens when the booth gets rained out?

NEW Spring 2024 TITLE!

The Sunflowers Babushka Planted

Written by Beatrice Rendón • Illustrated by Olga Baumert

When Tania was six years old, she and her parents fled Ukraine during World War II. For years they were refugees in Europe, displaced and without permanent residence. Finally, they found safe housing in a refugee camp, but what about home? Day by day, they stitched together new lives, but it wasn't until a memory of Tania's babushka and her beloved sunflowers that the family at last began to rebuild a sense of home.

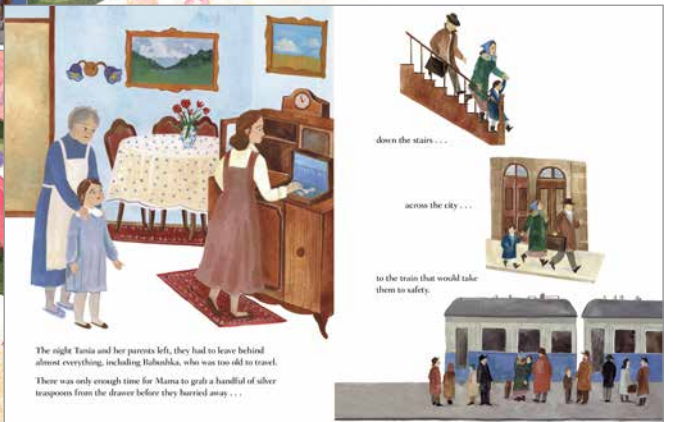

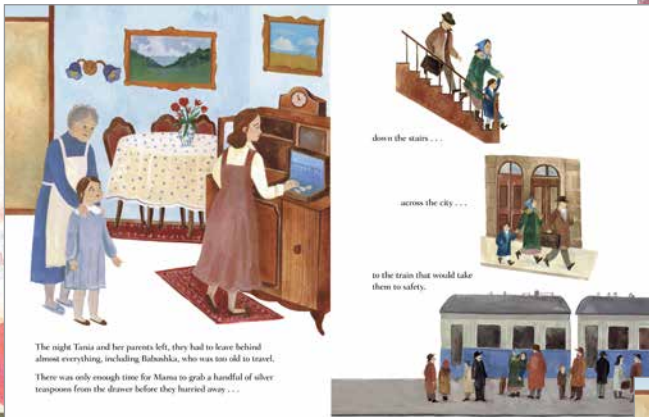

This true account about debut author Beatrice Rendón's grandmother offers a universal story of hope for refugees around the world.

NEW Spring 2024 TITLE!
Not My Circus

Written by Janet Sumner Johnson • Illustrated by Patrick Corrigan

Olivia was supposed to buy eggs at the store. Instead, she bought a circus! Between food fights and a lack of potty training, her mom is not thrilled. When Mr. Victor refuses to take the animals back, it's off to the zoo for Olivia's new friends . . . unless she can find a way to prove that she is in control of her circus. Janet Sumner Johnson (Braver Than Brave, A Bad Case of the Almosts, and Help Wanted, Must Love Books) takes a simple idiom and turns it into a hilarious story of one girl's love of animals, weaving in themes of responsibility, determination, and creative thinking.

A Bad Case of the Almosts

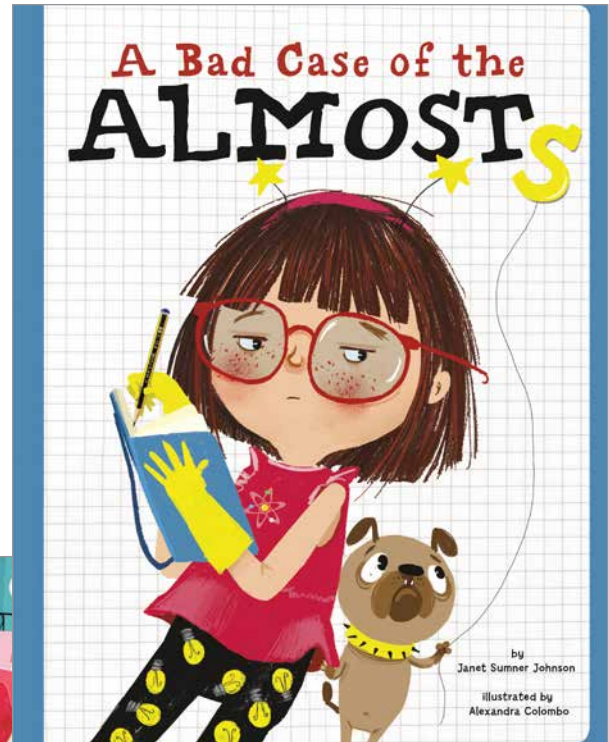

Written by Janet Sumner Johnson • Illustrated by Alexandra Colombo

The “almosts” are ruining Abby’s life! She’s almost tall enough. She’s almost a star student. She’s almost first in line—and on and on it goes. So why even bother entering the science fair? The almosts will ruin it anyway. But what if Abby is wrong? Maybe the almosts can actually be a good thing . . . Feeling disappointment is a part of life, and Janet Sumner Johnson tackles that feeling with force in this inspirational picture book. In her signature kid-friendly text, Johnson highlights the importance of seeing positives in every situation and using a growth mindset to live your best life.

Yoshi's Big Swim: One Turtle's Epic Journey Home

Written by Mary Wagley Copp • Illustrated by Kaja Kajfež

Yoshi's Big Swim chronicles the impressive true story of Yoshi, a loggerhead turtle who was rescued by fishermen, then rehabilitated and cared for by scientists for many years. The scientists adored her, and Yoshi was happy in her aquarium home. But then, many years later, Yoshi let them know that it was time for her to move on. Would Yoshi be safe? Would she know what to do? After lots of preparation—and plenty of friendly back scratches for Yoshi—the determined loggerhead set off on her journey. Discover an amazing story celebrating teamwork, science, and an animal hero who swam more than 22,000 miles to her true home—the longest journey of any animal ever tracked. In addition to being awe-inspiring, Yoshi's story underlines the importance of wildlife conservation and the power of one animal to unite people around the world for a common cause.

Deep, Deep Down: The Secret Underwater Poetry of the Mariana Trench

Written by Lydia Lukidis • Illustrated by Juan Calle Velez

Deep, deep down, at the very bottom of the ocean, lies a secret world. Through lyrical narration, this spare-text STEM picture book takes readers on a journey to a place very few humans have ever been—the Mariana Trench. The imagined voyage debunks scary myths about this mysterious place with surprising and beautiful truths about life at Earth's deepest point. Deep, Deep Down shows a vibrant world far below, and teaches readers how interconnected our lives are to every place on the planet.

How Science Saved the Eiffel Tower

Written by Emma Bland Smith • Illustrated by Lia Visirin

“One of the few picture-book biographies celebrating the work of an engineer, this volume tells the little-known story of a man who left his mark upon the world.” —Booklist (STARRED REVIEW)

The city of Paris wanted to tear down the Eiffel Tower! Gustave Eiffel, an engineer and amateur scientist, had built the incredible structure for the 1889 World’s Fair. Created using cutting-edge technology, it stood taller than any other building in the world! More than a million delighted people flocked to visit it during the fair. But the officials wondered, beyond being a spectacle, what is it good for? It must come down! But Eiffel loved his tower. He crafted a clever plan to make the tower too useful to tear down by turning it into “a laboratory such as science has never had at its disposal.” As the date for the tower’s demolition approached, Eiffel raced to prove its worth. Could science save the Eiffel Tower?

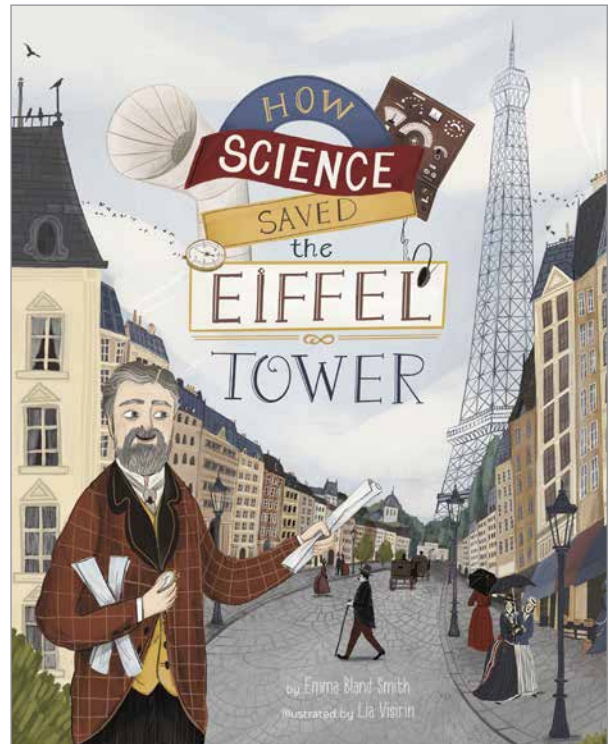

Find out in this extraordinary picture book by award-winning author Emma Bland Smith (Mr. McCloskey’s Marvelous Mallards, The Gardener of Alcatraz). With delightful illustrations, an engaging narrative, and little-known facts, How Science Saved the Eiffel Tower is sure to be a hit with soon-to-be scientists, engineers, and history buffs.

The Ashe Brothers: How Arthur and Johnnie Changed Tennis Forever

Written by Judy Allen Dodson • Illustrated by David Wilkerson

In 1968, Arthur Ashe climbed his way to the top of the tennis world in a time filled with racial tension and segregation. But his success didn’t happen without help. Arthur’s close relationship with his younger brother, Johnnie, was key to Arthur becoming the first Black man to break the color barrier in men’s tennis. A layered story full of love, sibling rivalry, and unconditional support, The Ashe Brothers tells the little-known story behind Arthur’s Grand Slam win.

Chapter 1
MONKEY BUSINESS

Krypto flew high above Metropolis. KRUNCH! His super-hearing picked up noises below. He quickly spotted a giant robot dog. It was tearing up the city!

"This metal monster is going down!" Krypto said. He zipped toward the robot.

The beast was as tall as a building. It smashed cars as it stomped through the street. When Krypto was close, the robot attacked. It smacked the Super-Dog with a huge paw.

Scooby-Doo trotted down the sidewalk below. He was late to meet the rest of the Mystery Inc. gang. But that didn't stop him from eating his giant sandwich. GULP! He downed it in one bite.

"Reelicious," he said.

Krypto smashed into a nearby car. The Super-Dog shook his head. He flew back toward the robot.

Scooby looked around. He saw a grinning monkey with a remote control. It was Banjo—Toyman's evil pet. Banjo was controlling the destructive robot!

Waiting and Waiting

Emma loved her pet goldfish, Ruby. But Ruby just swam in circles.

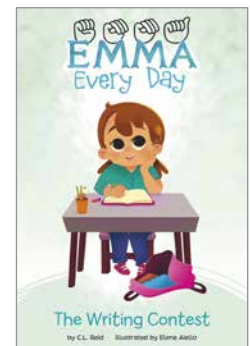

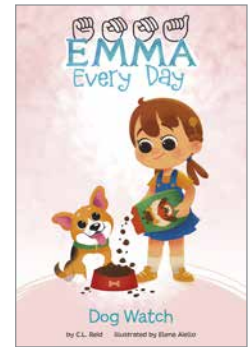

“Can we foster a cat?” Emma signed.

“Sure,” Emma’s dad signed. “I will call Cat Connections and sign up.”

“Let’s get ready while we wait,” Emma signed.

“Good idea,” Dad signed.

They went to the store. They bought a litter box, litter, cat food, and cat dishes. Emma bought a toy mouse too.

Mr. Brooks drove them past all the different cats' enclosures. They cruised past lions lounging on rocks, leopards climbing trees, and tigers splashing around a pool. A line of sky trolleys hung over the entire park so guests could view the cats from above.

Even though the sun had already set, large floodlights lit up everything. The cart moved along the main road with pens and storage buildings on each side.

"Look at all the cute kitties!" Daphne said.

"Big kitties," Fred added.

Ms. LeGalle pointed past the animals. "Think of all the houses we could build on this land."

"Think of all the tricks these cats could do in my circus," Mr. Howell added.

Velma shook her head. "Don't you think these cats would be happier here than in a circus?" she asked.

NEW Spring 2024 SERIES!

Rosie Woods

Rosie Woods is a thinker, a watcher, a writer, and a third grader with really high standards! She always tries her best and thinks others should as well. But sometimes, Rosie is reminded that she can't control everything—especially when it comes to her loyal but unpredictable pal Wolfie. Each chapter book in this delightful series plants elements from a classic fairy tale in a modern classroom setting and explores the joys and frustrations of friendship, teamwork, and new discoveries. Author Maya Myers, former K-1 teacher and classroom literacy specialist, infuses each tale with clever curricula and captures the antics, excitement, drama, and hilarity of elementary school. Rich back matter provides additional supports for each theme.

Jack kept his eyes on his paper, where he was drawing a plant. He didn't answer her.

Rosie elbowed Wolfie and gave him a wide-eyed look, the kind that said, Why isn't Jack helping?

"Ow, Rosie! What'd you do that for?" Wolfie was never any good at eye language.

"Never mind," she said. They didn't need Jack's help anyway.

Wolfie leaned over to look at Rosie's book and said, "Mrs. Marshall said we need a question about what beans need to grow."

"Yep," Rosie said. Wolfie had a habit of telling Rosie things she already knew.

"So?" Wolfie said. "What's our question gonna be?"

— 16 —

"I guess it should be about what it says here. Sunlight, nutrients, air, and water. But that's not a question. It's more like an answer."

— 17 —

think of lots of ideas and write them down."

"Uh-huh," Rosie said, closing her notebook again.

"Even if they're good or bad," Wolfie said.

"I know, Wolfie," Rosie said. "I was at school today too, remember?"

"Oh, yeah!" said Wolfie. He laughed and turned back around.

Rosie opened up her notebook.

Number one. How about—

Wolfie threw his head backward over the top of his seat, so he was looking at Rosie upside down. "Oh man, I have so many ideas, I don't know which one to write first!"

That Wolfie. He brainstormed out loud the whole way home.

Maybe the villain is this DRAGON that comes and eats all the people in this town and the hero is a knight boy who has to DEFEAT the dragon. OR maybe the villain is this MONSTER that lives under the stairs and the hero is the regular boy who lives in the house and he has to FIGHT the monster. OR maybe...

Authentic Voice

She and Dad walked up and down the aisles of the Korean grocery store. “Where did Mom go?” Jina asked. It felt like they had been shopping forever.

Finally, Mom rounded the corner, pushing their cart. It was overflowing with groceries. “We’d better get in line to check out,” Mom said. “It’s getting crowded.”

As they walked to the check-out lines, Jina groaned. All the lines were so long, people had to stand in the grocery aisles. “This is going to take forever,” Jina sighed.

Mom looked at Dad. “Why don’t you and Jina wait outside?” she said.

Jina hugged Mom. “Let’s go, Dad!” she said.

Outside, there wasn’t much to do, but Jina was happy to walk around. Across the parking lot, a sign caught her eye. Jina read it out loud, “Pet adoption day! Give a home to a furry friend!”

Jina sat next to her. “What have you been doing today?” Jina asked.

“Oh, this and that,” Halmoni said, waving her hand weakly in the air.

Jina waited. But her grandmother didn’t say anything else.

Jina wasn’t sure what to do with this quiet grandmother. “Halmoni, are you feeling okay?” Jina asked.

“Oh, yes, fine,” Halmoni said.

Jina knew how to get Halmoni off the couch. “Do you have anything to eat?” Jina asked. “I’m starving.”

Halmoni waved her hand toward the kitchen. “There’s some kimchi jjigae in the fridge you can heat up,” she said.

Jina stared. Had an alien taken over her grandmother? Halmoni never told Jina to fix her own food. She always made it for her! Plus, she knew Jina didn’t like kimchi jjigae. The spicy soup was her dad’s favorite, not Jina’s.

"No snake is a good snake," Nolan started reading again.

I flipped open my notebook of snake facts and photos to show my brother. I had started working on it a couple of years ago, and now it was almost full. I had the whole thing memorized and kept adding new facts.

"Look at snake fact number fifteen," I said. When Nolan didn't look up, I started reading aloud. "Snake fact number fifteen: Snakes help control unwanted pests. Some harmless snakes

“Great! I am excited to hear Habo and Ather talk about their work,” Sadiq said. “Maybe today will be the day I decide what I want to do when I grow up!”

“I thought your job was going to be Best Friend Forever?” Zaza teased. “I guess I will have two jobs!” Sadiq teased back.

When they got to their classroom, Ms. Battersby was trying to quiet the students. They were all very excited to have guests coming. Waves of chatter spread around the room, and lots of kids were fidgeting in their seats.

“Alright everyone!” she called out loudly and clapped her hands.

“What’s the flavor of this cookie?” asked another woman. “It’s delicious!” “It’s a halwa flavored cookie,” Sadiq explained. “Halwa is a traditional Somali dessert.”

Then he gathered his nerve and asked, “Would you like to order some?” “I would love to,” the woman replied. “Me too!” said another. “Sign me up!” said a third. “I’m having a party this week. These would be perfect!”

Before they knew it, the boys had orders for dozens and dozens of cookies—all to be delivered on Saturday.

“Who knew starting a business could be so easy?” Sadiq said to his friends. The three high-fived one another and raced back home, thrilled with their success.

Wesak is also called Vesak or Buddha Day. It honors the Buddha's birth. Some remember his death and enlightenment on this day too.

The Buddha was born around 563 BCE in India. His name was Siddhartha Gautama.

Gautama grew up as a prince. His life was easy and safe. When he was 29 years old, he went out into the streets. There he saw an old man, a sick man, and a dead man. He was sad to see people suffer. Then he saw a monk. The monk was at peace. How could this be?

Freedom Summer 1964: Turning Point for Voting Rights

Written by Ngeri Nnachi

Voting gives people a voice in their communities. In the past, racist laws and practices kept Black American voices silent. No place was more affected by this racism than the state of Mississippi. In 1964, organizers and volunteers brought change to Mississippi. This movement to register Black voters became known as Freedom Summer, and it led to the passage of the Voting Rights Act of 1965. Discover the people, events, and results of Freedom Summer and learn why voting rights remain an important issue today.

Authentic Voice

INTRODUCTION

GIVING EVERYONE A VOICE

Your vote is your voice. What does that mean? It means voting in elections gives people a say in what happens in their communities. One goal of the U.S. government system is that everyone has a voice. But that hasn't always happened. In this country, some voices have not been heard.

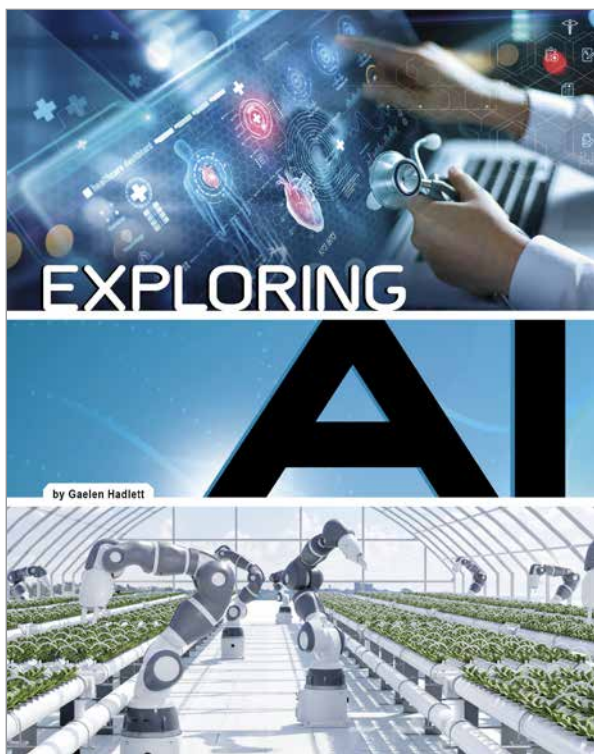

In the 1960s, Black Americans had a legal right to vote. But white people in many states worked hard to make sure Black people did not vote. They made Black people pass difficult tests to prevent them from voting. They also scared Black people who tried to vote. Sometimes police arrested them. Other times bosses fired Black people from their jobs.

By 1964, a Mississippi activist named Robert Moses believed if white people from other parts of the country spoke up, others would pay attention. So he launched a plan.

Civil rights activists protested for voting rights outside the courthouse in Greenwood, Mississippi, in March 1964.

Dreaming of AI

Scientists long dreamed about the creation of AI. An early success was ELIZA, a chatbot created by Joseph Weizenbaum at Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) from 1964 to 1966. ELIZA was designed to act like a therapist. It would respond to every statement made by a human user by asking a question about the human's previous statement. At the time, many people were impressed with this early AI.

Scientists hoped for more AI advancements in the 1970s and 1980s. But computer hardware wasn't yet up to the task. Computer processors—microchips that run the instructions of computer programs—were not fast enough. The mathematical formulas were not advanced enough either.

While computer engineers built faster and more advanced computer hardware, researchers and designers worked on developing new computer programs. By working together and not giving up, they brought about the AI we have today. It can find tumors, listen to whales, measure pollution, and so much more!

People worked together to develop the hardware and software needed for AI.

Ancient Ice: What Glaciers Reveal About Climate Change

Written by Golriz Golkar

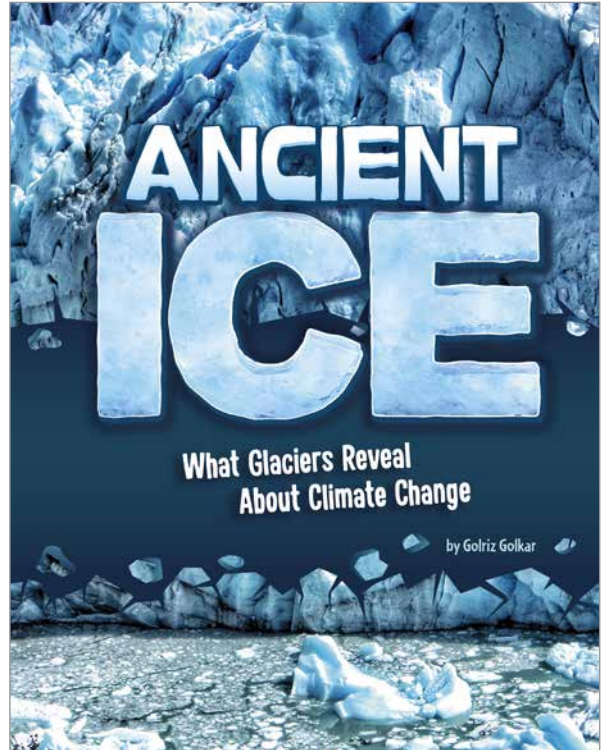

Glaciers have been around for a long time. Many formed at the end of the last ice age, about 20,000 years ago. Since then, they have shaped Earth's landscape, helped cool the planet, and provided living things with fresh water—all while weathering changes in Earth's climate. Studying glaciers can tell us a lot about how Earth's climate has shifted over time, how human activities are impacting the climate, and what might occur in the future. Packed with information, vibrant photos, and hands-on activities, this book helps students learn about glaciers, how they're changing, and what that might mean for the planet's future.

INTRODUCTION

DISAPPEARING GLACIERS

Glacier National Park in Montana was once home to about 150 glaciers. Today, fewer than 30 remain. The ones left are less than half their original size. And scientists think that within 30 years, most of them will be gone.

But glaciers are not melting just in Glacier National Park. They are slowly disappearing all over the world. They're melting in places like Iceland, Pakistan, and Tanzania too.

Why? Climate change—long-term changes in weather patterns—is raising Earth's temperature.

A glacier on Mount Kilimanjaro in Tanzania

Glacier National Park

Losing glaciers can have a big impact on life on Earth. Glacial melting causes a rise in sea levels, which increases coastal flooding and erosion. Winters are getting shorter in many places, so snow and ice melt earlier in the spring. This can contribute to droughts and wildfires, especially in the fall.

But glaciers have been around for thousands of years. So they hold important clues about the effects of climate change. Scientists are studying them to learn about Earth's past climate. They're also learning how human behavior is speeding up climate change.

INTRODUCTION

Blasting Off

Clouds of steam billow around a rocket standing on its launchpad. Its tanks are filled with very cold kerosene and liquid oxygen that will fuel the launch. The countdown begins. At T-minus 1 minute, last checks are complete. Engines rumble and hiss. A voice comes over the radio. "All systems are go for launch. T-minus 30 seconds." The rocket shudders and shakes the ground as its engines ignite. "T-minus 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1, full power . . . and liftoff!" There is a fiery explosion of red and white. The rocket rises from the pad. Soon it's traveling at supersonic speed toward its destination: space.

A rocket blasting off to space is an awesome moment. Although people around the world are launching more rockets than ever, it's hard to think of these moments as commonplace. So far, 12 people have walked on the moon, and multiple nations have built space stations where small teams of people can stay for weeks or months at a time. But what is the future for humans in space? Who will go and what will they do there? The answer is unwritten. But we can ask questions and look at past and present achievements to ponder what is possible.

A Falcon 9 rocket launches from the Kennedy Space Center in Florida in 2020.

ONE BIG KITTY

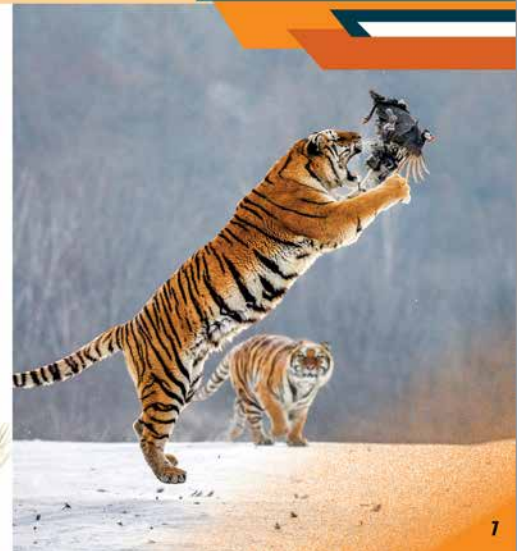

Siberian tigers are huge. They're the world's largest cat. They're bigger than jaguars or panthers. They're even bigger than African lions.

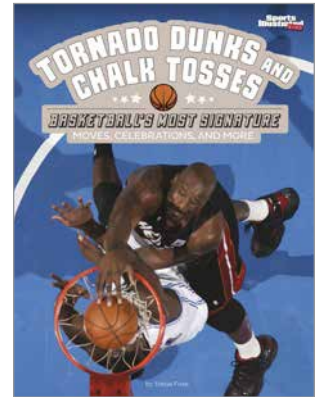

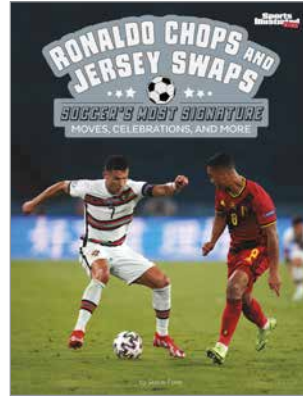

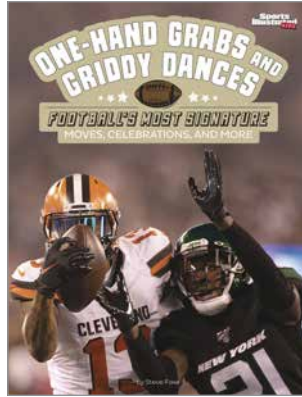

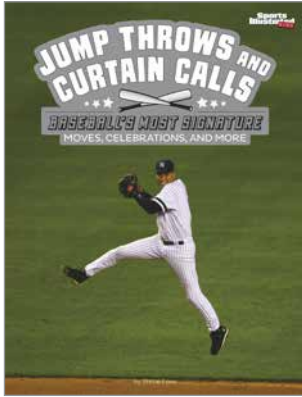

Most pet house cats weigh about 10 pounds (4.5 kilograms). But a Siberian tiger can weigh up to 900 pounds (408 kg). That's one big kitty!

BEASTLY BRAWLERS

The Siberian tiger and saber-tooth cat have a lot in common. They're both big, bad cats. They have sharp claws and big teeth. They're expert predators. They use their speed and strength to catch prey.

To perform his famous chop, Ronaldo leaps in front of the ball. He kicks it at an angle using the inside of his strong foot.

Ronaldo prepares to chop the ball with the inside of his right foot.

GETTING MOSSED

Randy Moss played for 14 seasons in the National Football League (NFL), most famously for the Minnesota Vikings. Moss is known as one of the best wide receivers in football history. He ranks second in all-time career touchdown catches.

Minnesota Vikings Randy Moss leaps for a pass.

Larger Than Life

Basketball is huge. Millions of fans love the game. But it had small beginnings. People didn't have hoops at first. They used peach baskets!

The National Basketball Association (NBA) wasn't always popular. Great players and teams helped the sport to grow. Myths and tall tales about them grew over time. But some myths aren't true.

Let's learn the truth behind some big basketball legends.

Hi-Lo from SIK

Sports Illustrated Kids: Sports Greatest Myths and Legends

Did Babe Ruth really call his shot? Was Super Bowl III fixed? Was Michael Jordan really cut from his high school team? In Sports Greatest Myths and Legends, readers can dig deeper and uncover the truth behind some of the greatest myths in sports history. Read all about the players, plays, and events that became the stuff of legends in this intriguing new series from Sports Illustrated Kids.

Video Game Jinx

Madden NFL video games are very popular. People love them! Being on the game's cover is a big honor for National Football League (NFL) players. But some people think it's a curse. They think the players always get hurt or have bad seasons.

Tied Up

In baseball, there are many close plays. Many happen at first base. Think of when a runner and the ball get to first at the same time. Some think the tie goes to the runner. Is this true? No, it's a myth. It's the umpire's choice. Safe or out!

Baseball has many myths and legends. Let's explore some of the biggest.

Pocket Hug

Is your friend feeling down? Does your family member live far away? Give them hugs even when you're not next to them by gifting them an adorable pocket hug to carry!

Supplies

- pencil and paper
- felt in assorted colors
- fabric markers
- scissors
- embroidery floss in assorted colors
- sewing needle
- fabric glue
- newspaper

- Use pencil and paper to sketch a design for a critter peeking out of a pocket. Include a pocket shape, face, and paws.
- Fold the felt in half to create two layers. Draw the elements of the design on the felt using fabric marker. Then cut the designs out.
- Stack the pocket cutouts on top of each other so the parts marked by fabric marker are facing inside. Use the needle and embroidery floss to sew around the bottom and sides of the pocket.
- Repeat step 3 to sew the top and sides of the critter's face.
- Cut any facial features for the critter out of felt. These could include a nose, ear accents, and spots. Glue the felt cutouts to the face. Let the glue dry.
- Use embroidery floss to add other facial features, such as a mouth, to the critter's face.
- Shred the newspaper. Stuff the shreds into the openings of the face and pocket. Leave a small amount unstuffed for sewing.
- Place the bottom of the critter's face into the unstuffed portion of the pocket. Sew across the top of the pocket, stitching through the bottom of the critter's face as you go.
- Glue the paws to the front of the pocket. Let the glue dry.
- Give your pocket hug to a pal so they have a warm, fuzzy friend!

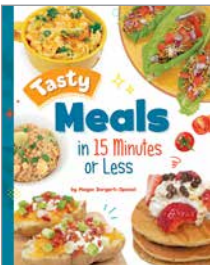

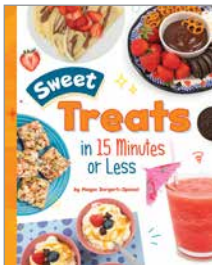

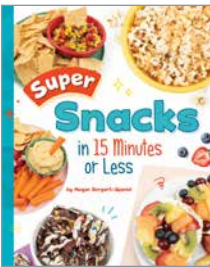

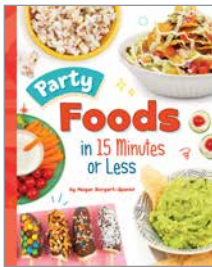

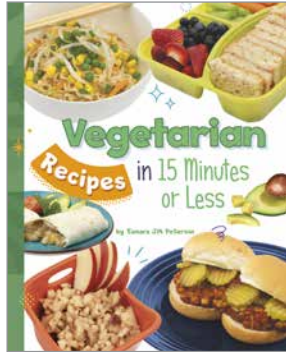

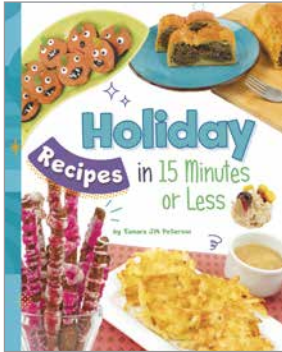

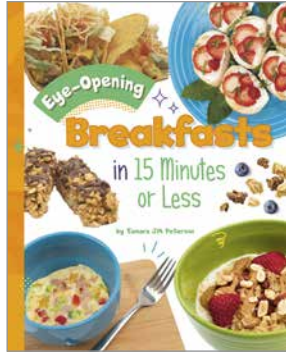

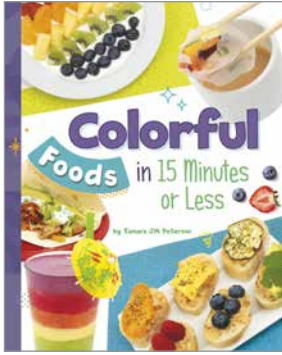

The Gift of Words

A short and sweet message will brighten anyone's day. And it might mean the world to someone who's feeling down! Write personalized messages for friends and family to unwrap.

Supplies

- 8 1/2 by 11-inch (21.6 by 28-centimeter) card stock
- scissors
- ruler
- pencil with eraser
- wrapping paper
- glue stick
- pen or fine-tip marker
- craft foam
- hot glue gun

- Cut the card stock in half vertically.
- Draw a horizontal line 3 inches (7.6 cm) from the top of one card stock half. Draw a second line 7 inches (17.8 cm) from the top to divide the card stock into three sections.
- Fold the card stock inward along each line and unfold. Cut the top section into a rounded point like an envelope.
- Cut a piece of wrapping paper slightly larger than the card stock. Use the glue stick to glue the back of the card stock to the wrapping paper's plain side. Let the glue dry. Trim off any extra wrapping paper.
- Write a kind message inside the card in pencil. When you're happy with the message, trace over it in pen or marker. Then erase the pencil marks. Close the card by folding the bottom section up and the top section down.
- Cut a strip of craft foam about 12 inches (30.5 cm) long and 1 inch (2.5 cm) wide. Draw a decorative shape, such as a bow or star, on craft foam and cut it out.
- Wrap the strip of foam around the envelope and hot glue the ends together where they overlap. Then hot glue the decorative shape on top. If you'd like, write who the note is for on the decorative shape.
- Repeat steps 1 through 7 to create more kind notes!

Coconut Macaroons

Dark chocolate chips bring bittersweet balance to sweet coconut in this simple dessert.

Ingredients

- 2 cups shredded coconut
- 4 tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon coconut oil
- 2 tablespoons maple syrup
- ½ cup dark chocolate chips

Supplies

mixing bowl
measuring cups and spoons
spoon or rubber spatula
plate or tray
parchment paper
microwave-safe bowl

Food Fact!
Adding oil to chocolate helps the chocolate melt to a smooth and shiny consistency.

- In the mixing bowl, combine the shredded coconut, 4 tablespoons coconut oil, and the maple syrup.
- Scoop 2 tablespoons of the coconut mixture on a plate or tray lined with parchment paper. Keep making balls until the mixture is gone.
- Put the coconut balls in the freezer while you prepare the chocolate.
- Pour the chocolate chips and 1 teaspoon coconut oil into the microwave-safe bowl. Microwave the chocolate in 25-second bursts. Stir between each one until the chocolate is melted and smooth.
- Take the coconut balls out of the freezer. Drizzle a spoonful of melted chocolate over each coconut ball.
- Put the coconut balls in the freezer for a few minutes so the chocolate sets. Then enjoy your coconut macaroons!

Rainbow Pancakes

Take breakfast up a notch by using fruit to make colorful (and tasty!) pancakes.

Ingredients

- 1 large egg
- 1 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons oil
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 cup flour
- ¼ cup raspberries
- ¼ cup crushed mandarin orange pieces
- ¼ cup pineapple chunks
- ¼ cup blackberries
- food coloring (optional)
- 1 tablespoon oil or butter, plus extra
- whipped cream, sprinkles, or other toppings (optional)

Supplies

knife and cutting board
measuring cups and spoons
mixing bowl
whisk
4 plastic storage bags frying pan
scooper
spatula
plate

- Whisk together the egg, milk, oil, sugar, salt, baking powder, and flour in the mixing bowl to make batter.
- Pour one-quarter of the batter into each plastic storage bag.
- Add the raspberries to one bag and seal it. Carefully squish the bag to mix the raspberries into the batter. If you would like a stronger color, add one drop of coordinating food coloring to the bag.
- Repeat step 3 to mix the orange, pineapple, and blackberries into the other three bags. Remove any air and tightly seal the bags.
- Heat the butter or oil in the frying pan over medium heat.
- Clip a bottom corner from one bag of batter. Squeeze the batter into the frying pan to make a pancake.
- When the pancake is done bubbling, use the spatula to carefully flip it. Let the pancake cook for another minute. Then transfer it onto the plate.
- Repeat steps 6 and 7 using the remaining bags of pancake batter. Add more oil or butter to the pan between pancakes if necessary.
- Top your pancakes with whipped cream, sprinkles, or other toppings of your choice. Then enjoy your colorful breakfast!

Days That Changed America

Some days are ordinary. Others are memorable. And then there are days that forever change a nation. On a day in April, the country lost its leader. On a day in August, hundreds of thousands of people marched for equal civil rights. On a day in September, terrorists attacked without warning. Through gripping text, historical photos, and primary source quotes, take a closer look at the most monumental events in United States history and discover their lasting impact on the nation. These are the days that changed America.

Great Moments in History

History is filled with great moments. Some have been captured on film, such as the heroic raising of a flag in battle. Others have been documented in writing, like the travels of a brave woman who dared to trek alone around the world. And some moments have been passed down through the generations, such as the day enslaved people finally celebrated freedom. Now young readers can experience these moments and more for themselves. Through dramatic graphic novel art and engaging narrative, Great Moments in History takes readers back in time and shows them how the most memorable moments were monumental for our world.

Children were singing, and the voice of a man on a bullhorn was shouting. "Freedom is coming too slow," he yelled. "We can't wait anymore for it to come. We want our freedom, and we want our freedom now."

The young crowd cheered. Behind the man was a cheerleading squad cheering with their pom-poms. Honestly, it felt like a pep rally.

My mother told me that going to jail is not a pep rally, I thought. Yet here I am, standing in the sanctuary of the church in the middle of a pep rally.

I inspected the crowd to see if I could find Tyrone or Davida, but I didn't see either of them anywhere. I walked to the rear of the sanctuary and down the hallway toward the basement stairs.

Down in the basement were crowds of older students chanting and singing. "Ain't gonna let nobody turn me around." I could tell that they were in high school because of how they were dressed.

So much for the well-mowed field.

A whistle blew, and Francis sped toward the ball. He got there just ahead of an opponent. He bashed his car into the side of the ball, which launched up and over toward Patrick.

Patrick, driving an ATV, dribbled the ball. He knocked it carefully down the field. An opposing car tried to make a play on it. Patrick engaged his nitro boost and rammed into the ball. The ball flew upward and headed toward the goal. However, it was too high to score.

"And that'll put us in the championship game," Coach said as Sarah rounded home to end the game.

"Yeah!" Everyone cheered and started slapping hands.

"The championship game will be in three weeks," Coach shouted over the noise. "We'll be playing the Lions."

The girls barely heard her. June was dancing on the dugout bench. Elise and Lucy were holding hands, jumping up and down, and screaming "Champions! Champions!"

Maisie watched her joyous teammates for a moment. Then she slowly walked over to the backstop fence. She pretended she was taking her bag down. She just didn't want anyone to see the tears filling her eyes.

The ref started skating out with the puck. Calvin's best friend, Frank, glanced over his shoulder from his position as center.

We got this, Frank mouthed.

Calvin nodded. He tapped his stick three times on the ice. That was his and Frank's special signal. They had done it in every game since they were seven years old. They were still doing it now at twelve.

The ref dropped the puck. Frank and the Sycamore center lunged for it.

The Sycamore hit the puck to his wing. The player tried to make a quick pass. But a Blades defender just as quickly knocked it away.

The black disc went flying across the ice. Calvin powered after it. Snow shot up from his skates.

Calvin was one of the smaller players on his team. But that also made him one of the fastest.

CHAPTER 1

DIPPITY-DO-AHH

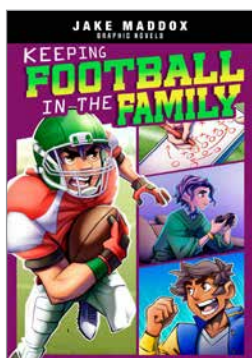

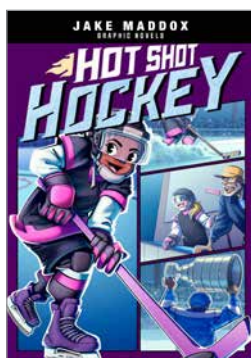

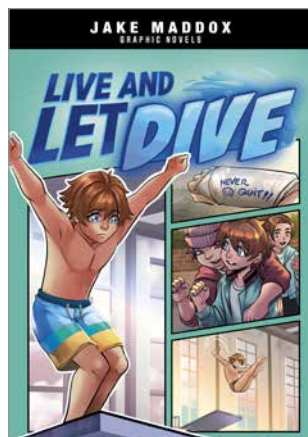

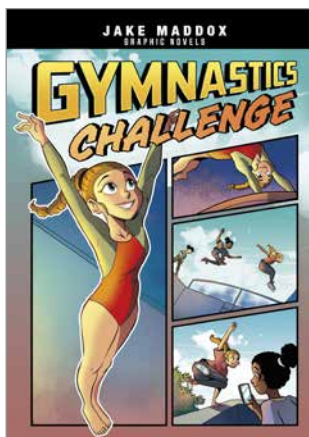

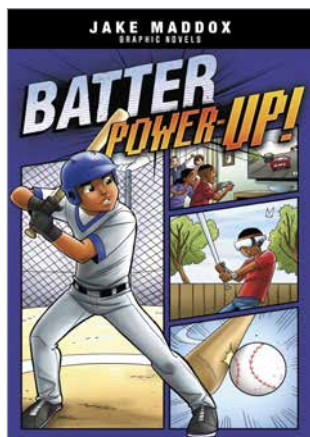

Jake glanced back to see Christine close behind him. Tufts of hair stuck out in crazy directions from under her helmet. Her eyes were focused on the road.

Jake gave Christine a quick nod and turned back to the road path ahead. It seemed so easy through town. It slipped in and out of shallow valleys. They roared along, bouncing over tree roots and whirring around bends. The whir of engines filled Jake's ears, and branches snapped at his arms.

Jake felt the vibrations of his rambling ATV as he gripped the handlebars. Sometimes he imagined

Mason tensed as the path led to an open space. Tombstones littered the ground.

K-E-Y-E: Uh-oh, nothing good happens in a graveyard.
Zkatt: tity.

Mason's screen filled with a cut scene. These video clips often gave players clues. Or showed a new enemy. This was definitely an enemy one.

KRRRISH!

A bony hand burst from the dirt. An arm came next. Then a skeleton warrior pulled itself out of the grave. It held up a wooden shield. It swung a rusty sword.

SHING!

hanna, banana. frilly!!
MACEE: take it down!

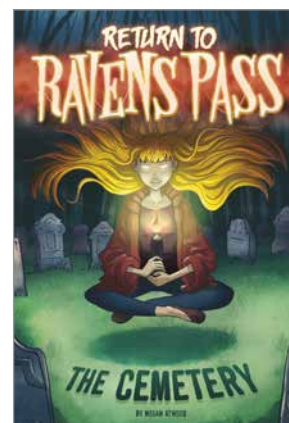

Return to Ravens Pass

Return to Ravens Pass, the strange little town where nightmares come true! Capstone's popular chapter book series is back with more spine-tingling, scary stories. Eva walked slowly to the school, feeling people stream around her. She tugged at her shirt—it was a too short! She had outgrown it a little since last year. She tried not to let anyone see her sneakers.

When she got to the building, she found her locker and put her lunch in there but decided to take her backpack with her. She was too afraid she'd get lost if she had to come back to her locker between classes.

The first bell rang, and Eva hurried to her homeroom. When she got there, she didn't know one single person.

The desks were just tables that sat two people at a time. "Sit wherever you want!" said the teacher. Eva started sweating. She really wished the teacher had assigned spots. Everyone seemed to be pairing off. She just sat down at the closest table near her. It felt like musical chairs.

Stories to Scare Your Socks Off!

BEWARE... This series will SCARE YOUR SOCKS OFF! Each book has eight stories focused on a single, spine-chilling theme: zombies, monsters, ghosts, sorcery, and more. With fast-paced text and nightmare-inducing illustrations, young and old horror fans alike will enjoy reading (and reading aloud) these terrifying tales at sleepovers, campouts, Halloween, or anytime. Featuring four scream-worthy horror writers—including bestselling author Michael Dahl—these story collections are must-haves for young readers in need of a spook. Complete with beyond-the-book back matter, including discussion questions, writing prompts, and a glossary.
